Part 3: Read the passage and choose the correct answers. (5 questions – 0.2 mark/question)

When I opened the first 'Body Shop' in 1976 my only object was to earn enough to feed my children. Today 'The Body Shop' is an international company rapidly growing all around the world. In the years since we began I have learned a lot. Much of what I have learned will be found in this book, for I believe that we, as a company, have something worth saying about how to run a successful business without giving up what we really believe in.

It's not a normal business book, nor is it just about my life. The message is that to succeed in business you have to be different. Business can be fun, a business can be run with love and it can do good. In business, as in life, I need to enjoy myself, to have a feeling of family and to feel excited by the unexpected. I have always wanted the people who work for 'The Body Shop' to feel the same way.

Now this book sends these ideas of mine out into the world, makes them public. I'd like to think there are no limits to our 'family', no limits to what can be done. I find that an exciting thought. I hope you do, too.

What is the writer's main purpose in writing this text?

- A. to introduce her ideas to the reader
- B. to tell the reader her life story
- C. to explain how international companies operate
- D. to tell the reader how she brought up a family

ANSWER: A

What would someone learn from this text?

- A. what the writer's book is about
- B. how to make a lot of money
- C. how to write a book about business
- D. what the writer's family is like

ANSWER: A

How does the writer feel about the business she runs?

- A. It is not like any other company.
- B. She doesn't care about success if her children are fed.
- C. She just runs it for her own entertainment.
- D. It is likely to become even more successful.

ANSWER: A

What kind of workers does the writer like to employ?

- A. workers who have the same attitudes as she does
- B. workers who can explain her ideas
- C. workers who get on well with the public
- D. workers who have their own families

ANSWER: A

What kind of person does the writer seem to be?

- A. She seems to be someone with strong opinions.
- B. She doesn't seem to be very confident.
- C. She is mainly interested in making money.
- D. She sees running a business as just a job.

ANSWER: A

Part 4: Read the passage and choose the correct answers. (5 questions – 0.2 mark/question)

Panel painting, common in thirteenth- and fourteenth-century Europe, involved a painstaking, laborious process. Wooden planks were joined, covered with gesso to prepare the surface for painting, and then polished smooth with special tools. On this perfect surface, the artist would sketch a composition with chalk, refine it with inks, and then begin the deliberate process of applying thin layers of egg tempera paint (egg yolk in which pigments are suspended) with small brushes. The successive layering of these meticulously applied paints produced the final translucent colours.

Backgrounds or gold were made by carefully applying sheets of gold leaf and then embellishing or decorating the gold leaf by punching it with a metal rod on which a pattern had been embossed. Every step in the process was slow and deliberate. The quick-drying tempera demanded that the artist know exactly where each stroke be placed before the brush met the panel, and it required the use of fine brushes. It was, therefore, an ideal technique for emphasizing the hard linear edges and pure, fine areas of colour that were so much a part of the overall aesthetic of the time. The notion that an artist could or would dash off an idea in a fit of spontaneous inspiration was completely alien to these deliberately produced works.

Furthermore, making these paintings was so time-consuming that it demanded assistance. All such work was done by collective enterprise in the workshops. The painter or master who is credited with having created the painting may have designed the work and overseen its production, but it is highly unlikely that the artist's hand applied every stroke of the brush. More likely, numerous assistants, who had been trained to imitate the artist's style, applied the paint. The carpenter's shop probably provided the frame and perhaps supplied the panel, and yet another shop supplied the gold. Thus, not only many hands, but also many shops were involved in the final product.

In spite of problems with their condition, restoration, and preservation, many panel paintings have survived, and today many of them are housed in museum collections.

What aspect of panel paintings does the passage mainly discuss?

- A. Production
- B. Different styles
- C. Famous examples
- D. Restoration

ANSWER: A

According to the passage, what was the first step in making a panel painting?

- A. Preparing the panel
- B. Mixing the paint
- C. Making ink drawings
- D. Buying the gold leaf

ANSWER: A

Which of the following processes produced the translucent colours found on panel paintings?

- A. Applying many layers of paint
- B. Joining wooden planks to form large sheets
- C. Polishing the gesso
- D. Covering the background with gold leaf

ANSWER: A

What characteristic of tempera paint is mentioned in the passage?

- A. It dries quickly.
- B. It has to be applied directly to wood.
- C. It is difficult to make.
- D. It dissolves easily.

ANSWER: A

The author mentions all of the following as problems with the survival of panel paintings EXCEPT...

- A. theft
- B. condition
- C. restoration
- D. preservation
